

Alpine, WY

We traveled through the high deserts of eastern Oregon and Idaho. We were surprised by this part of Idaho, there are a lot of mountains, but it is very arid. We stopped at a Harvest Host, Y-Knot Winery, a pleasant place to spend an evening.

We landed in beautiful Alpine, Wyoming! Dogs are very free (and well behaved) here, leash laws seem to be suggestions versus laws. The RV resort is outstanding, with great views and in this small town it is within walking distance of a grocery store and restaurants! They have many walking paths next to us where the dogs can roam around, and we can enjoy the mountain scenery.

When we asked about where the recyclable material goes, we were told there is no recycling in Wyoming RV Parks. So far; Vancouver carefully recycles everything separately including collecting compostable material (at sites all over); Washington recycles glass/paper/metals; Oregon, glass/metals; Wyoming RV parks none, however there are glass/metal recycle receptacles in several locations around town.
